

If you're the only one who knows how it works, it isn't secure.

You have built something remarkable. But if you are the only person who understands how all of it fits together, you haven't really secured it. A Family CFO sits at the centre of the professionals you already have and holds the entire picture.

HOW WE WORK

ONE POINT OF COORDINATION

We convene your attorney, CPA, insurance and banking relationships around a single plan.

THE WHOLE BALANCE SHEET

Operating businesses, real estate, entities, private holdings and public markets in one view.

CONTINUITY, WRITTEN DOWN

A protocol and a place your family can reach, so nothing depends on you being available.

WHO SITS IN THE MIDDLE

A wealth manager's relationship ends with you. A Family CFO's continues with your family.

WHAT'S INCLUDED

- Estate strategy coordinated with your attorney
- Multi-year tax planning across entities and generations
- Family governance and next-generation education
- A complete balance sheet and document vault
- Business valuation, exit and succession (CEPA®)

Nothing has to be in-house, and nothing has to change. We work with the advisers you already have, and where you need one, we bring in trusted attorneys, CPAs and specialists from our own network.

ADVICE FOR LIFE — THE SAME FOUR STEPS, WHICHEVER DOOR YOU CAME THROUGH

01

Discovery

Before we crunch numbers we talk about what matters most to you — family, community, pastimes. Together we figure out where you are now.

02

Planning

We assess where you stand against your goals and priorities, weigh the financial implications of each, and build the framework of a plan.

03

Solutions

We recommend specific strategies aligned to each goal, across every area of your financial life, and implement the plan.

04

Monitoring

Life happens. Tracking keeps the plan on target, so we can anticipate change and adjust as circumstances do.

WHO THIS IS FOR

- Families whose wealth spans businesses, property, entities and investments
- Families on the other side of a sale, with more to coordinate than to invest
- Families where one person holds all the knowledge and nobody else could step in
- Families whose advisers have never spoken to each other

QUESTIONS WE ARE ASKED

What does a Family CFO actually do?

The same function a CFO performs for a company, applied to a family: holds the complete picture, coordinates the specialists, keeps the reporting current, and makes sure decisions are made with the whole balance sheet in view.

Do we have to move our accounts?

No. Coordination does not require custody. Where consolidating makes sense we will say so, and where it doesn't we won't.

How is the fee structured?

Family Office relationships are engaged on one flat annual fee, capped, rather than a percentage of assets. Our other services are priced differently. Your actual fee is set out in your advisory agreement and Form ADV Part 2A.

What happens to my family if something happens to me?

That is the point of the continuity protocol. The balance sheet, the documents and the adviser relationships already sit in one place your family can reach, so they continue with people who know the situation.
